

2020 AAEE WINTER SCHOOL

THE UNIVERSITY OF WESTERN AUSTRALIA

13-17 JULY 2020

The Australasian Association of Engineering Education (AAEE) Winter School is an immersive experience that brings together engineering education researchers and education researchers in related STEM disciplines. Attendees will learn about:

- Designing and undertaking effective education research projects
- Evaluating teaching and curriculum
- Positioning evaluation and research activities in light of current trends
- Appreciating and responding to national and local grant opportunities
- Building collaborative research partnerships across Australia and beyond

Fees for the whole week (including instruction, materials, and daytime catering):

$500 for PhD students (who are not full-time academics)

$800 for academic staff who are members of AAEE

$900 for academic staff who are not members of AAEE

Daily registration to attend on Thursday and/or Friday for people who have attended a previous Winter School:

$150 for PhD students (who are not full-time academics)

$200 for academic staff

If the direct flight time from where you work to Perth is more than 2 hours there will be a $100 reduction in these registration fees to assist with flight costs.

The Winter School will be facilitated by: Elaine Chapman, Scott Daniel, Anne Gardner, Sally Male, James Trevelyan, and Keith Willey. All facilitators have extensive experience in supporting academics and PhD students to develop their skills in engineering education research.

Registration deadline: Monday 29 June 2020
